

SOME SIXTY VARIETIES OF TREES YIELD RUBBER

Rubber, popularly believed to be the sap of a tree familiarly known as the rubber plant, of which many have miniature specimens growing to their living-rooms, is obtained from a wide variety of trees and bushes. Miller tire men say there are over sixty varieties known to commerce. South America, Mexico,

Africa, India, and the islands of the Malay Archipelago all produce one or more kinds.

Air to Clean Upholstery.
Use the compressed air, which is furnished by the engine's operation of the tire pump, to clean the upholstery of the car. This device will be found serviceable when getting the particles of dust out of the tufts of the cushions and other inaccessible places.

'ULTIMATE' CAR
IS ANNOUNCED
BY LEXINGTON

New Model Is Displayed for
First Time at Auto
Show.

The Lexington Motor Company of Connersville, Ind., announced for the first time at this week's show its newest and greatest offering—The Ultimate Model, a five-passenger touring car equipped with the Ansted engine.

It is a car possible only through a co-ordination of factories such as exists in the United States Automotive Corporation, of which the Lexington Motor Company is the chief subsidiary. Every major unit is built in a factory allied with, or close to, Lexington.

The new five-passenger Lexington Ultimate Model is really the result of a public expression of what is most desirable in a motor car. A questionnaire, sent to 20,000 car owners, revealed twelve qualifications which, in the public mind, a car should have. These include endurance, comfort, price, appearance, economy, service, flexibility, hill-climbing, endorsements, specifications, speed, and appointments.

Only a company so fortunately allied with parts makers as Lexington could have produced the Ultimate Model. It was built to combine at one and the same time all of the desirable qualities outlined in these questionnaire replies.

The prime quality of endurance is peculiarly evident in the new Ultimate Model both in specifications and in record of performance. It is equipped with the powerful Ansted engine. It has full force-fed lubrication for the motor, spring bolts one inch in diameter where the duty is most severe, frame sills with seven and three-quarter-inch sections, with newly invented double triangle frame cross members, giving great strength and rigidity and thereby preventing distortion and making for long car life.

Scientifically designed springs, thirty-eight inches long in front and fifty-nine inches long in the rear, are designed to produce a minimum of rebound and a maximum cushion against shocks. This quality of comfort is enlarged by ample body room and luxuriously upholstered seats.

The car is so priced as to be within the reach of all buyers of quality cars.

In appearance the Ultimate model is refined and in good taste. The freakish and the bizarre have been avoided. Yet its lines are fresh and attractive.

DON'T PUT OFF REPAIRS TILL RUSH TIME COMES

The motorist who habitually puts off needed repairs until just before he is ready to start the first trip in the spring had better watch his step this year.

Statistics show so many more cars in use that if they all follow the usual custom of jamming the repair shops with rush work, it will probably take three weeks to get a spark plug cleaned.

"Repair it now," is the slogan that repairmen and accessory dealers are impressing on motorist all over the country. "Repair it now" is a mighty wise thing to do, for now you can get thorough, prompt service. Three weeks from now you'll have to take your turn in line. Rush work is seldom satisfactory and cautious motorists aren't taking any chances on delays and poor workmanship.

It is rumored that March 30 will see parades in many cities to give publicity to the "Repair it now" movement.

IT'S ANYBODY'S CONTEST NOW,
HOPPE THINKS

Former Champion Feels He's Due to Triumph Tonight in Final Billiard Play.

Here is the second of Willie Hoppe's articles on the world 16.2 ball-tack billiard championship match, 1,500 points, now being played in Chicago by Hoppe, the challenger, and Jack Schaefer, Jr., the titleholder. The score now stands: Schaefer, 1,000; Hoppe, 552. Schaefer scored 500 points to Hoppe's 466 the first night and last night 500 to the challenger's 466. The last block will be played to-night. The match is drawing capacity crowds.

By WILLIE HOPPE,
Written for the International News Service.

CHICAGO, March 29.—I expect to win back the title tonight. I want to say this as modestly as I can. I feel that I am going to win. I will be greatly disappointed if I do not.

It is anybody's contest now. The forty-eight points difference between our scores really means very little. The issue will be decided, I am sure, by the question of who gets going first tonight. I think it's my turn.

Both nights I have started late and have had to stage a comeback. My brilliant opponent on each occasion got away to a big lead start. The first night he had me 446 to 190. Last night he ran 300 points while I was registering 37.

I started miserably both nights and, if I may say it, finished grandly. It will be up to me tonight to get started early.

Schaefer's shooting at times last night was dazzling. His table shots were magnificent, and he repeatedly drove into fine position after bad lays.

I did my best work at close range. Towards the finish I was nursing the spheres in great shape. If I do it myself, I was just getting going right.

Tonight, however, will settle it. May the best man win.

MRS. SCAMMELL TAKES HONORS IN GOLF CONTEST

Defeats Miss Cummings, of Chicago, for Woman's Semi-Finals.

By International News Service.

PINEHURST, N. C., March 29.—Mrs. M. J. Scammell, of Uniontown, Pa., defeated Miss Edith Cummings, of Chicago, 2 and 1 yesterday in the semi-finals of the women's North and South golf championship and will meet Miss Glenna Collett, of Providence, in the final tomorrow. Miss Collett won her semi-final match today by an 8 and 7 score from Mrs. C. Uebelacker, of Arcola.

Miss Cummings was the favorite in her match with Mrs. Scammell, but Mrs. Scammell possesses a sound game. She learned to play at the Oakmont Club, of Pittsburgh, and is a daughter of H. C. Fownes and a sister of W. C. Fownes, former national amateur champion. Miss Cummings led one up at the ninth and won the tenth, but Mrs. Scammell squared the match by winning the eleventh and twelfth holes when Miss Cummings took three putts on each green. Mrs. Scammell won the fifteenth when she sank a long putt and began one up and took the match by winning the seventh in three after driving to a trap. Her recovery left her a seven-foot putt which she sank while Miss Cummings, who drove on the green, took three putts.

Miss Cummings had a medal score of 43-42-85 and Mrs. Scammell was 47-40-87.

Miss Collett played well, taking but thirty-seven shots to the turn, winning at the twelfth hole.

CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY
MEETS GALLAUDET MEN

Baseball players of Catholic University start their season against Gallaudet College today on Killian Field. It is likely that the Brooklanders will end Jackson Clark and Ducharme into the firing pit, while Gallaudet will probably depend upon Lahn.

The Brooklanders leave for Norfolk the end of the week for two games with the Norfolk Naval Base nine.

Holy Name in Line.

The Holy Name clubs, with home grounds at Union League Park, are booking games in the junior and senior classes. Those desiring games should get in touch with the Rev. Carroll Moore, at 820 Eleventh street northeast, or J. B. Irving, at 627 Eighth street northeast.

Hoklis Club Ready.

The Hoklis Club of Calvary Baptist Church has two ball teams in the field, thirteen to sixteen and sixteen to twenty years of age, and teams desiring games call Jack Patterson at Lincoln 4108-J.

TILDEN AND KID PARTNER ELIMINATED IN TENNIS

NEW YORK, March 29.—Play in the doubles of the national indoor tennis championship tournament continued in the seventh round today with William T. Tilden, 2d, and his fourteen-year-old partner, Alexander L. Wiener, of Philadelphia, eliminated.

Ingo F. Hartman and James D. Ewing, Jr., defeated the boy winner and his mentor, world's singles champion, in a first-round match yesterday, 6-0, 11-9.

JOE TURNER TO TAKE ON BENGETTI TOMORROW

Joe Bengetti, the Italian "bone-breaker," will meet Champion Joe Turner in a wrestling match to be staged at the Capitol Theater tomorrow night in connection with the regular performance.

Bengetti has the reputation of being a clever wrestler and expects to give Turner a hard struggle.

SPORTING NEWS

DREAMY FLORIDA HOLDS
GRIFFS IN VAMPISH SPELL

By LOUIS A. DOUGHER.

TAMPA, Fla., March 29.—It will soon be good-by to beautiful, sunny Florida, the Land of Flowers, as it is termed down thisaway. With Saturday's game over on Plant Field, the Griffins will pack their suitcases and be ready to board the train on Sunday, headed for Jacksonville and Charleston, S. C., where the first of the barnstorming contests will be played next Monday.

With a few exceptions the fans will be sorry to leave Florida and head into the cooler latitudes of the big league. The warm breeze, the bright sun, the cool nights, the waving palm trees among the reverend old oaks, the sparkling waters of the Hillsboro river and Tampa Bay will not soon be forgotten. Some of the fans may never see the Land of Flowers again, or if they do, it will not be as members of the Washington club. Others will be longing for their return, once old winter sets in again in Iowa, Pennsylvania or Ohio.

A certain spell goes with this bright, sunny land jutting out into the waters of the Gulf of Mexico. George Mogridge knows it and is dreaming of bringing his family down to St. Petersburg next winter. Zeb Milan is thinking of spending some three months down around Fort Myers. One or two other fans are thinking of wintering at Miami or Punta Gorda. They are all victims of the spell.

Old Ponce de Leon, who landed at St. Augustine, sought the fountain of perpetual youth. He merely grew big and more silent. How can anybody grow old in Florida?

Reading one's newspaper, one easily sees the close connection between Florida and the color gray. North. The thousands of tourists driving into the State are from the North. Many linger here and merely go home to keep their business in order, hastening back to miss as little as possible of the blessed sunshine, which makes for life itself.

Sitting on the sea wall at St. Augustine are old folks, men and women on the downward path of life, smiling and nodding with the breeze. And they are strolling along the beach at Daytona, meandering along the boulevard at Miami, sitting on the benches beneath the shade trees in Williams park at St. Petersburg.

Yes, and while we have not been there to see, they are probably sitting and drinking in life at Palatka, at Kissimmee, at Sanford, at Narcoossee, at Rockledge, at Homosassa, at Ocala, at Fort Lauderdale, at Arcadia, at Fort Meade.

There is something beckoning in the very names of Florida's beautiful, sunny towns, in the musical titles of the lakes and rivers. The Lorell must really have dwelt in Florida, not in any German river.

If you have tired of battling the elements, why not come down to Alachua, or to Citra on Orange Lake, or to Lane Park, across from Leesburg on Lake Harris? They tell us there are 1,400 lakes in Lake county alone. Take your pick.

There are no really big cities in Florida, but there are any number of small ones. If you like to have folks around you, there is Tampa, with its 60,000. St. Petersburg with its 15,000, not to mention Jacksonville with its 91,000.

But possibly you may prefer Winter Park with its 1,078, or Ocala with its 4,914, or Gainesville with its 5,218, or Bradenton with its 3,868 citizens.

If you're still crowded why not go to Citronelle where twenty-five persons live?

What, too big? Well, there are only four living in Chahala, five at Cross Bayou, five at Lexington, and six at Thonotosassa Junction.

Furthermore, if you crave absolute quiet, go to Fincher, Phosphoria or McLane where nobody lives now and you will be the first member of your local lodge in the wilderness.

There are dozens of pretty spots along the St. Johns River all the way from Lake George to the sea. Or you may mosey along the Indian River.

If you wish to go right down to the edge of the Everglades, you may go to Moore Haven on Lake Okechobee, being careful to watch out for rattlesnakes.

And wherever you go you will find perpetual youth in the sparkling water, the brilliant light blue of the sky, the bright yellow of the sunlight. Old Ponce de Leon is said to have died of a broken heart because he did not know the fountain when he saw it.

And soon we must bid adieu to all this. We must leave behind us the sun and the warm wind to feel the harsh mountain breeze, the cutting blasts from the old Atlantic or the icy winds from the Great Lakes.

OLD DUTCH MARKETMEN LIKE SPORT VARIETY

The Old Dutch Market Athletic Association is preparing to step out. Following the baseball season, which is likely to be a successful one for the marketmen, judging from the outlook, the association will organize a football team and after that a basketball team. A bowling team already is in operation.

Detroit Fans Buy Tickets.

DETROIT, March 29.—Despite a drizzling rain, some 8,000 baseball enthusiasts lined up at a downtown Detroit store to obtain tickets for the opening game here April 30 of the American League season.

INAUGURAL IS FEATURE WHEN BOWIE OPENS

Seven Furlongs Dash Picked
as Classic of Spring Racing Season Opener Saturday.

The Inaugural Handicap, a dash at seven furlongs, should prove to be the outstanding feature of a well-balanced card to be offered patrons for the first day's racing of the Eastern campaign at Bowie on Saturday.

Fashioned for three-year-olds and upwards, the sprint will bring to the post the very best thoroughbred of the division now in training at the Southern Maryland course. While nominations for the Inaugural have been many—there being no less than twenty-three names to start at this strictly day—it would not be surprising if one of the bulkier fields of the meet paraded prior to the running of the feature.

Foremost among the galaxy of stars are the probable starters is Bunga Buck, the four-year-old son of Vulcan, which will carry the colors of Mrs. H. Datner. It will be remembered that the Datner gelding was the outstanding maver of last fall's meeting at the Prince George's course.

G. W. "Buck" Foreman, the popular Washington owner, is pinning his faith in the three-year-old gelding. Eloquent Xarco, who by the way, is a half-brother to Motor Cop, is pronounced right now as being further advanced in condition than any other horse being trained now in training at Bowie.

William Burtchell, the veteran trainer of J. R. Skinner's string, is pointing the well-known campaigner, Eddie Rickenbacker, expressly for the Inaugural, while L. T. Bauer, the Baton Rouge sportsman, has brought North the ever popular Tippley Wiltcher for the event.

Slippery Elm, another possible starter, and the property of Robert Smith, is regarded by the stable connections as being one of the most dangerous contenders for the opening day's feature attraction.

Others that have been nominated and figure quite prominently in the handicap division are Irish Kias, Minute Man, Pentient, Yashmak, Alex H. Pann, Jean, Hober Baker, St. Albans, Super, Bygone Days, Costigan, Lunetta, Servitor, Irish Dream, War Zone, Knight of the Heather, Thimble and Sandy Beal.

Hollenbach gives up Penn football job

Routine of Entire Season at Franklin Field Too Much For Bill.

PHILADELPHIA, March 29.—Although William H. Hollenbach, one of the greatest halfbacks of all times among University of Pennsylvania football players, repeatedly hinted at the expiration of last fall's campaign that he would give up the position of directing backfield material at Franklin field, it was not until today that the whole-hearted coach confirmed this intention.

Hollenbach was seen at his office in the Harrison building. Upon appearing in his place it was evident that the big fellow had plenty to think of other than developing football men and plays. He sat with sleeves rolled up at the telephone, through which he was talking of coaches and Philadelphia. At the same time, he was glancing over correspondence from one or two colleges asking his recommendation of men sought to handle football material.

He was too busy to even mention football, but did state that he had fully decided not to give so much time to material at Franklin field. Then in the midst of this a business associate came in to talk more Philadelphia. This man said that none other than William Hammer, who put the talk on Big Bill with music.

Hollenbach giving up his position as playfield coach and designer of plays does not infer that he will not be among those assisting at various times with the football men of the Red and Blue. He pointed out that last year he spent several hours afternoons and evenings at Franklin field, and at the same time there were many occasions when he should have been at his place of business.

Hollenbach is one of the most ardent supporters of the Red and Blue that the colors ever had. He always has been successful with men on the football field. In his record are five years spent at State College, where they won the Nittany Lions on the way to present-day success; he worked a year at Syracuse, one at P. M. C. and a season at Missouri.

Hollenbach had nothing to say regarding the play of the University for next fall. Doubtless Big Bill will be at Franklin field from time to time during the football operations, but does not want to be tied down to the routine of an entire season. There will be a meeting soon of the athletic council, at which no doubt the names of those expected to direct the destinies of the Quakers will be announced. It will be difficult to find a man equal to Hollenbach in advising backfield men.

Challenge Kid Teams.

All thirteen to fourteen-year-old teams are invited to take on the Yale A. C. team. The Yales want a game with either the Warwicks or Diamond Midgets for Sunday. Buddy Davis, 323 K street northeast, can be reached by phone at Lincoln 5465-W, between 3:30 and 7:30 p. m.
